COOPERATIVE EXTENSION

What is a 4-H Aggie Adventures Youth Counselor?

Utah State University Extension and Utah 4-H is seeking youth between the ages of 14-17 to volunteer as camp counselors for children's educational summer camps. Camps are week long day camps held on the Utah State University campus. They emphasize hands-on learning, and explore a variety of different themes including archeology, robotics, history, paleontology, art, physics and chemistry, astronomy, and engineering.

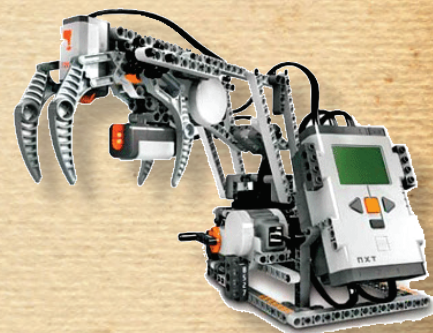

Why Become a Youth Counselor?

Volunteer service is helpful to have when you're applying for scholarships, putting together a portfolio and building a resume. Volunteer service with 4-H Aggie Adventures gives you valuable teaching and leadership experience and also offers great incentives. Upon completion of 100 volunteer hours (five camps and attendance of all counselor trainings) you will receive a Life Skill Incentive of your choice such as a ski pass, guitar lessons, horseback riding lessons, digital camera, or another incentive of your choosing.

What Does a Youth Counselor Do?

As a counselor, you would be helping out with many aspects of the summer camps including assisting campers with their projects, answering questions, playing games, supervising campers at check-in and checkout, and teaching and presenting lessons.

How do I apply?
